Secretary Hay Acts on the Monza, Aug. 1.—The King and Queen Request of Baron Fava.

EVIDENCE FIRST WANTED.

Not Clear That the Authorities Can Make Arrests.

BRESCI STILL DEFIANT.

Admits That He Was Chosen to Murder King Humbert.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington Aug 1-in compliance wit an urgent representation made by Ambassador Fava, the Italian representative b this country, Secretary Hay has requested the Governor of New Jersey to take mousures to obtain evidence preliminary to the prosecution of any persons within his State who conspired to bring about the assassination of King Humbert,

Within a very short time the authoritie expect to have officially determined the question of whether the crime was the resuit of a conspiracy hatched in the United States. If evidence to support the assertion that such is the case can be obtained it will then be necessary to decide whether the Federal or State laws permit prosecution o persons charged with conspiring against the ruler of a foreign nation. The communication received at the State Department from Baron Fava shows clearly that he has placed detectives at work to place the responsibility for the crime upon the shoulders of those persons in Paterson who consured with Bressi to murder the King. The Governor of New Jersey, in compliance with the request of Secretary Hay, will set the State wheels of justice in motion. Though it is dented that the Secret Service has decided to make an investigation, it would not be surprising should it inaugurate an investigation to obtain information for the use of the Federal Government in ase any further representations are mad by the Italian Government. The authorities are horrifled that the United States should have been the seat of the conspiracy, and they propose to use every available channel to punish the plot-ters, provided the proof necessary to establish their guilt can be obtained and a law an be found under which they can be procuted. An examination of the revised statutes of the United States fails to show any section under which conspirators against the life of a foreign ruler can be punished. Besides the treaty of extradition with Italy of 1968 specifically provides that "the provisions of his treaty shall not apply to any crime of offense of a colitical character."

Baron Fava has not asked for the extradition of any persons who took part in the conspiracy, nor is he likely to do so, as such a request could not be entertained by this Government. It may be, however, tha the laws of New Jersey contain a provision under which the conspirators can be prosecuted.

The administration is especially anxiou to show Italy that it proposes to take what ever action it can to punish any person who conspired with Bresci against the King. It is appreciated that unless vigorous measures are taken Italy will consider that this Government has behaved in an unfriendly manner and the cordial relations which exist between the two Governments may, in consequence be endangered.

BRESCI MAY BE SHOT.

Italians Believe the Assassin Will Be Convicted of Treason.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, Aug. 1.-Gaetano Bresel will be tried for treason, according to well-in-formed Italian lawyers of this city, and will he shot. Under the Italian law the penalty for murder is life imprisonment, but for an act of treason the death penalty is pro vided. It is optional with the Government whether the proceding against Bresci shall be for treason or murder, and, from whether what is known of Victor Emmanuel III, it is will demand the extreme penalty for his father's assassin.

John Palmieri, an Italian lawyer of this city, thus described the proceedings which will be followed in Bresci's case: The assassin of King Humbert will first be taken before the Pretore, an official coresponding to a committing magistrate in this country. The procedure is entirely different, however. Our jurisprudence regards a man as innocent until he is proven guilty; e has the benefit of counsel and his rights are safeguarded. In Italy they act on the that the man is guilty until he establ hes his innocence. They hold an interrogatione, asking questions tending to bring out the motive for the crime. The accused is not permitted to have counsel, and no questions can be asked except by the Bresei's case. He has admitted that he is an anarchist, that he went from this country for the purpose of killing the King, and that he fired the shots. The Pretore will hold him for the Camera di Consiglio, corresponding to our Grand Jury. The evidence taken at the interrogatione will be ead and indictments for murder and for treason will be found against him,

"Bresci will be sent to the Cassazione, which resembles our Supreme Court, criminal branch. A presiding Justice, two other Judges and twelve jurors will hear the case. The accused will have counsel, but all of the evidence and admissions obtained in the earlier proceeding will be used against him. His counsel will not be permitted to cross-examine witnesses, but all questions must be asked by the President of the court. Counsel on each side are permitted to sum up, and a majority of the jury may convict. Bresci will probably be tried in Milan.

"The only death penalty in Italy is a military execution. The prisoner is blindfolded and shot from behind."

"To-night at the mouth of an abandoned mine, near Shaner Station on the Baltimore and Ohlo Rallrond, a large gathering of anarchists met to exult over the killing of King Humbert. The meeting was in charge of G. Clancabilla, editor of L.Aurora, the anarchist newspaper of Hoboken, N. J., who spoke for an hour, rousing his hearers to a high pitch of rejoicing. SPECIAL BY CABLE. Rome, Aug. 1—(Copyright, 1900, by W. R. Hearst.)—The Kaiser was marked for assassination in the plot of the anarchists which ended in King Humbert's death.

The evening that Humbert was killed by Bresel the Chief of Police of Milan was warned that the anarchists had decided to slav the sovereigns of tray and Germany. Warned that the anarchists had decided to slay the sovereigns of Italy and Germany. But the warning came too late to save the life of the King of Italy. The plot was discussed on the way over, but was not perfected until the quartet met other conspirators in Parls. It was there that the full details of the assassination, which had its birth in Paterson, were settled with the heads of the international society.

A double trap was laid for King Humbert, Bresci was told off to kill the King at Monza. Lanner was sent to Ivrea, a suburb of Turin, to watch for a chance to shoot or stab King Humbert, should ne come there. The plans were all well laid and worked to complete success. They were the result of months of study by the leaders.

King Humbert was chosen as the first victim of the plot of assassination, because Italy took the initiative at the anti-anarchistic congress. Lanner has been arrested at tyres. Quintavelle has been arrested at Copo-meri. In his possession were found the obotographs of five anarchists, Each was parked with the word "Crime" and with ix daggers. Teresa Brugneli, the woman, who is said Teresa Brugnoli, the woman, who is said to have been an accomplice, was arrested at Prato. She is believed to be the woman who wrote the letter from New York, in which the question occurs, "Is all ready?" Bresch had a son in Naples before going to America. His relatives are in a state of consternation at what they condemn as a cowardly outrage.

The woman is destitute.

She still tries to hope that the man arrested in Italy is not her husband, but she admits there is little reason for hope. She will be kept under police surveillance pending developments in her husband's case.

These letters show, it is stated what to assessing the King Humbert. Paterson, N. J. These letters show, it is stated, plots to assassinate King Humbert. Congressman McCulloch Says Bryan Will Have Sixteen Votes Too Many. REPUBLIC SPECIAL REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Representative McCulloch of the First Arkansas District, who

"Bryan will carry all the States he carried in 1856, and at least half a dozen of those which were carried by McKinley. The Democrats have a good fighting chance of carrying New York, but Bryan can be elected without the electoral vote of the Empire State.

"The total number of votes in the electoral college is 45. Four years ago McKinley had 271 and Bryan 176, a majority for McKinley of 35. It will be seen that a change of forty-eight is all that is necessary to elect Bryan.

"I figure that the thirteen votes of Kentucky twelve of which in 1896 were for McKinley, will this year be all for Bryan. Of the other States carried by McKinley four years ago, Bryan will this year carry Maryland, with eight votes; West Virginia, with six, Indiana, with fifteen; Michigan, with fourteen, and Minnesota, with nine. This will give a total of sixty-four which will change from the McKinley to the Bryan needs to assure his election. He can fall to carry any one of the six States I have named and yet be elected."

Mr. McCulloch has just been renominated by the Democrats of the First Arkansas District, and as the district is overwhelmingly Democratic, his election is assured. A full Democratic delegation, he says, will be returned to Congress from Arkansas, and of course the State ticket will be elected, and the eight electoral votes counted for Bryan.
